The Pull to the South

• On the program, The Pull To The South, (Document, March 21, CBC-TV), we were delighted by the stand taken by the students of the University of Ottawa on the question of whether Canada should become another American state. One exception was the young man who considered that all Canadian ideals, culture and past accomplishments were of no value compared to the purely material gains in trade and wealth which he envisioned from such a union. Well, it was written, "Breathes there the man, with soul so dead" . . . (Sir Walter Scott, Lay of the Last Minstrel).

It also riled us to listen to some of the pessimistic arguments of the narrator during the program, when the future loss of Canadian identity and nationality were calmly accepted as inevitable. . . . Among your many fine programs, The Men and the Issues (March 19, 20, 25 and 26, CBC-TV), was one of the best and most timely. The panel members were aggressive in their manner and attitude and sharp in their questioning.

—Mr. and Mrs. E.H.W., Vauxhall, Alta.

Pro and Con

• Thank you for printing both pro and con arguments regarding recent Festival and Quest productions. Mrs. R.C.D. of Lloydminster (Mailbag, April 6-12) could only take 20 minutes of The Endless Echo, (Festival, March 11, CBC-TV). This is unfortunate but I am sure there were many thousands of people who were very happy to see the play in its entirety.

There are great quantities of material produced for the requirements of "Mr. and Mrs. Average Canadian and family." . . . Please let us have from time to time at least a little material which is not average.

—J.F.C., Regina.

A Rare Treat

• I appreciated the very fine Song Recital, (Sunday, March 24, 4:45 p.m., CBC Radio), given by Bert Whiteman. That fine music, so well presented, was a great treat and I hope we may soon hear Mr. Whiteman again.

—Miss J.S., Calgary.

• It was a rare treat to hear Bert Whiteman in this splendid Handel recital and I hope we may hear him again soon. Thank you for this very fine program.

—Mrs. W.V.M., Winnipeg.

Stretching the Mind

• Your Sunday radio programs are of special interest, beginning with Postmark U.K. and continuing throughout the day . . . but I think that the newspapers should list radio programs. For people who are ill or elderly, radio listening is much less tiring than TV watching, and many good programs are missed because of the lack of newspaper coverage. I take the CBC Times and usually listen to and watch the CBC, but there are other programs of interest at times. . . . Please continue to give programs that stretch the mind—even a little.

—Mrs. J.D.G., Winnipeg.

An Appreciative Following

• My thanks to those responsible for the wonderful program, Music Diary, heard each Wednesday morning. (CBC Radio, 9:45 a.m., 9:30 a.m. on CBX). The singing of Elisabeth Schumann on March 27 was divine. We could well do with a good deal more of this type of singing.

Some years ago a short program of similar nature, going by the name of Roll Back the Years, gave us a great deal of pleasure. A revival of such a program might not have a very large following, but I'm sure it would be a highly appreciative one.

—J.J.E., Winkler, Man.

Galileo

• My husband and I commend you for the recent Festival production of Galileo (Monday, March 25, CBC-TV). A program of this nature is well worth seeing twice and I hope it will not be too long before we have the opportunity of viewing it again.

—Mrs. M.S., Winnipeg.

• Congratulations on the splendid production of Galileo. The script was excellent, the presentation very good, and the acting superb. We trust you will give us more of the same quality.

—H.A., Carman, Man.

CBC TIMES

• We have enjoyed many fine CBC programs — Festival, Quest, Inquiry, Explorations, not to mention the radio drama series and Radio International. Programs like these are living proof that Canada has tremendous writing and acting talent. It should be employed to develop Canadian programs to replace moronic offerings like The Beverly Hillbillies and I'm Dickens — He's Fenster which are dreadfully unfunny, and True, the content of which bears no relation to its title.

Why is CBC-TV not tapping the rich vein of Canadian humour embodied in Max Ferguson, whose one appearance on Close-Up made it memorable, and of Eric Nicol, Robertson Davies, Dave Broadfoot, and others of the Spring Thaw galaxy. Certainly let's have American programs, and British programs, but not those that insult the human spirit. And why can't the English network be as liberal as the French in its selection of movies, showing good Italian, French, Polish and Russian films in place of the many second-rate Hollywood movies?

Regretfully too, we are compelled to temper our praise for some recent CBC documentaries. . . . The Canadian public looks to the CBC to provide objective documentaries, the more so since our survival depends on accurate judgments. . . . Democracy cannot operate effectively unless reasonably accurate information is available about the issues at stake. Denied reality we will no longer be able to face reality, and will end up like many Americans with paranoid delusions of persecution, erupting periodically into hostile and destructive acts.

—Mr. and Mrs. A.M.L., St. Norbert, Man.

Trans-Canada Matinee—A Life-Saver

• I shall ever be grateful to Trans-Canada Matinee for the first-aid series currently being presented. (Each Thursday, CBC Radio, 2:03 p.m.; 2:33 p.m. on CBX).

The other day my four-year-old came running and screaming that his brother was in the water. I ran out to find my two-year-old floating face up just under the surface of our farm pond.

Fortunately I had been listening intently last week to Dr. Murray M. Fisher's description of artificial respiration and so I knew exactly what to do and was able to bring him around in about five minutes. My sincere thanks for your life-saving information.

—Mrs. W.A.W., Aldergrove, B.C.

ON OUR COVER: The Winnipeg Pops Concert starts the new programming quarter on a new day—Sunday at 10:30 p.m. on CBC Radio—expanded in time to 45 minutes. Coinciding with the change, three noted guest conductors will take over the podium during the absence of Eric Wild, who is in Europe. They are Dr. Geoffrey Waddington, Dr. Boyd Neel and Dirk Keetbaas.

Dr. Waddington, director of music for the CBC, is noted throughout the nation for his vast contribution to its musical life. Raised in Lethbridge, he early started the study of the violin, and when 17 made a successful tour of Canada as a concert performer.

In 1922 he joined the faculty of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, where he met concert pianist Mildred Baker, who later became his wife. When the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, forerunner of the CBC, came into existence, it took over CKNC in Toronto, at which Dr. Waddington was music director. Since that time, "conducted by Geoffrey Waddington" has been one of the most familiar credits on network programs of serious music. He is founder of the CBC Symphony, internationally acclaimed as one of the continent's finest orchestras. His distinguished musical career has been recognized by an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Dalhousie University.

Dr. Boyd Neel, Dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, came to Canada from Britain in 1953 after an outstanding career overseas that led to his recognition as one of the great conductors of our time. As a young physician in 1932, he gathered together some aspiring young London musicians and rehearsed them diligently for six months before their first public concert. This first concert was a great success, and the group continued to perform all over the world, making outstanding recordings and becoming familiar to BBC listeners. In appreciation of his services to music, Boyd Neel was named a Commander of the British Empire in 1953. In Canada, his name has become well known through his many appearances as a conductor, most frequently on CBC Wednesday Night.

Dirk Keetbaas, noted Winnipeg chamber music conductor, was born in Holland, coming with his family to Ottawa at the age of seven. He began playing the flute at 14, and during the war was first flutist with the RCAF Central Concert Band. It was at that time that he organized his first wind quintet.

He completed his studies after the war with Rene LeRoy, celebrated French flutist, and during eight years in Toronto he performed with the Toronto Symphony, the CBC Symphony and many other groups. He is first flutist of the Winnipeg Symphony, and his Dirk Keetbaas Players are heard regularly on regional and national network programs.

MARGARET MORRIS, a regular panelist on CBC-TV's Sunday evening game show Flashback, has collected the autograph of every mystery guest since the series started last fall. Her collection includes such famous signatures as Marilyn Bell, Artie Shaw, Rogers Hornsby, Sally Rand, Adolphe Menjou, Barbara Ann Scott, Ann Rutherford and Bert Pearl.

THE LAST of comedians Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster's four hour-long specials for CBC-TV this season will be seen Wednesday, May 15. One comedy skit is a spoof on a current movie hit about mutiny aboard a British ship in the south seas.

Don Francks: This Time He Sings

Versatile performer Don Francks introduces his new folksinging trio this week on PARADE

"I'M LIKE bubbling. Like ready to go," says Don Francks, trying to explain his restless, versatile, off-beat personality which has been exciting—and confusing—CBC-TV viewers and theatre-goers ever since he moved east from Vancouver in 1957. By last year he had become one of the hottest showbusiness properties in the country.

It seems he is skilled at just about every type of entertainment. He can act inventively and thoughtfully, play an instrument, sing a song—pops, Western or folk—or write one, direct a show, write a script, convulse his audience in a comedy skit, stop the show in a revue. Besides which, this glib, sardonic young man vacillates between being a velvet-collared, rather bizarre dandy who fancies elegant old automobiles; a tousled, scruffily coarse rebel; a soft-spoken artist boning up on Zen and raising large

A German
U-boat is surrendered to the Allies during the Second World War.

How The Allies Beat the U-Boat Menace

ONE OF THE greatest struggles in history, a struggle that contributed decisively to the final Allied victory in the Second World War, was the U-boat warfare in the Atlantic. CBC Radio's Venture series presents two programs about it, on Sundays, April 28 and May 5, at 5:00 p.m.

The German force, with superior training and infinitely better equipment at the beginning of the attacks, succeeded in an almost complete naval blockade of already overburdened Britain by cutting off vital connections to North America. The small, highly mobile Unterseeboot, with a young, zealous crew—often hand-picked from one of the Fuehrer's pet organizations, the Hitlerjugend—found no match in the few old-fashioned vessels owned by Britain and Canada, which sometimes quite justly were jokingly described as “converted fishing boats.”

The attackers had all the odds on their side: they were able to detect the masts and smoke of the big transports from far away without being seen themselves; they would keep at a distance on the trail of the convoy till reinforcements had arrived and darkness set in, and then take full advantage of the surprise factor, driving right underneath the few escorting destroyers and corvettes, to the centre of the convoy. But above all it was the daring and the enthusiasm of the Germans that made this period so successful for them.

The turning-point on the Allied side came during the spring and summer months of '43. The number of real specialists in anti-U-boat warfare had increased greatly, and the improvement of anti-U-boat weapons continued. When the British 10-centimeter radar was used for the first time by aircraft, the U-boats found it almost impossible to achieve success, even in massed attacks against the Atlantic convoys. On one occasion, 60 German submarines failed to score a single hit, and from March to May of that year, for every two ships sunk, one U-boat went to the bottom of the sea. As a result, Grand Admiral Doenitz had no alternative but to withdraw all his U-boats from the Atlantic temporarily, a blow from which the Germans never quite fully recovered, in spite of the introduction of a number of new weapons.

The interviews for the Venture documentaries, consisting of personal recollections of the ordinary seaman as well as expert observations of high-ranking officers and scientists, were collected by Colin D. Edwards. With the full co-operation of the British Navy and the U.S. Navy, he spent the greater part of last summer travelling abroad and through North America, gathering 45 hours of tape-recorded material. The task of editing and co-ordinating the stories was undertaken by James Bannerman, who served in the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War.

A problem in respect to German participation was encountered when Edwards reached Germany. Former Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, released after serving a 10-year sentence in Nuremberg prison as a war criminal, refused to tell his side of the story as head of the U-boat command. So did a number of other former members of that command, some of whom are now serving in the new German Navy. However, among the post-war German immigrants to Canada, there are many former members of the U-boat command, as well as of other German ranks. As new Canadians they ignored Doenitz's example and were co-operative in recalling their wartime experiences on tape for Venture.

Included also are a number of interviews with seamen of the Merchant Marine — virtually the “sitting ducks” of U-boat warfare.

A Church's Ambitious Experiment: Education with a Challenge

"THE SOLE TRUE end of education is simply this: to teach men how to learn for themselves. And whatever instruction fails to do this, is effort spent in vain."

These words from a shilling pamphlet by the late English mystery writer Dorothy Sayers sum up the philosophy of the unique experiment that was the weekend school of St. John's Anglican Cathedral, Winnipeg.

Founded in the fall of 1958 to provide a program of enrichment, tutoring and recreation for boys, the school continued to hold weekend sessions, with enrollment sometimes reaching 90, until June of 1962. Then the following fall, it having been decided that the school's success had demonstrated a pressing need for better development of youth, it was expanded into a full-time residential school.

A CBC production team was on hand for the final weekend session of the school at its historic site at Dynevor, Manitoba, on the Red River north of Winnipeg. Within a short two-day period, the boys are seen to arrive by bus to study, work, play, learn, rest and pray—a crowded schedule in addition to their regular school attendance at home in the city.

All teachers and staff at the weekend school were volunteers. Teachers from Winnipeg schools took "busmen's holidays" to guide boys through courses on ethics, religion, music, applied mathematics, German, Greek, Latin and debating. They had a mock parliament, a full-scale athletic program, boating and a dozen other organized activities designed to develop the mind and body, and thwart any possibility of boredom. College teachers, a doctor, a lawyer, a Winnipeg city councillor and university professors shared in the teaching, while many others took over the tasks connected with feeding and housing the boys.

Applications for admission came from youngsters of every background—from well-to-do and poor families, of foreign extraction or well-established Canadians, from good homes and broken homes, the especially bright and the average. As the school worked towards its goals, though, they all grew to have at least one thing in common: they showed great improvement in their regular school work, as their minds stretched to meet the challenge thrown to them.

The spirit of the volunteer staff was contagious, the CBC production crew found. During their weekend at the school, producer Ernie Mutimer found himself on the painting and decorating team, cameraman Harry Makin helped in preparing photos of the boys, and script assistant Jane Mathewson typed letters to parents.

Now that the full-time school is in operation, many of the previous volunteer teachers have become salaried staff-members. Frank Wiens, formerly a Winnipeg high school teacher, is principal of the school, and Ted Byfield, who is credited with having been the "idea-man" behind the whole project, has resigned from his position as city editor of a large daily paper to become one of the teachers.

The regular Manitoba curriculum is taught to the 60 boys enrolled in the five classes—grades six to ten—with the enrichment program following regular classes. To aid in supporting themselves, the boys help to operate a 120-acre farm that has been added to the property, all of which is leased from the Canadian government which once had an Indian hospital on the site.

On the opening of the full-time school, Headmaster Wiens said: "We believe that modern society (Please turn to page 33)

Boating is a favourite summertime activity of the boys. Here they paddle a large canoe in the Red River.

The Other Man — Introducing

A New Series Of Drama Serials

As an advance sample of a new CBC-produced series of dramas in serial form, to start in the fall, THE OTHER MAN is presented starting Tuesday, April 30 on CBC-TV

A CBC - PRODUCED suspense play in six half-hour episodes, in the classic style of British thrillers, with red herrings galore and a surprise showdown in the last act, begins on CBC Television this Tuesday night, April 30. Titled The Other Man, it was written by Francis Durbridge, one of England's top mystery writers, who has turned out literally hundreds of radio and TV scripts, mostly thrillers.

Douglas Rain stars as David Henderson, a housemaster in Buckingham College, an English public school on the outskirts of the small Thames Valley town of Medlow. When an Italian named Paul Rocco is murdered on a houseboat tied up on the quay, Henderson's suspicious behaviour puts him at the top of the police list of murder suspects. Detective Inspector Ford, played by Tony Van Bridge, finds the case particularly trying because he likes Henderson, and is under a personal obligation to him — the schoolmaster has helped his son, young Timothy Ford (John Kastner) with his schooling. The murdered man, recently arrived from Venice, had been looking after the houseboat for a distinguished solicitor, James Cooper, played by Ivor Barry, who is in some way connected with Henderson.

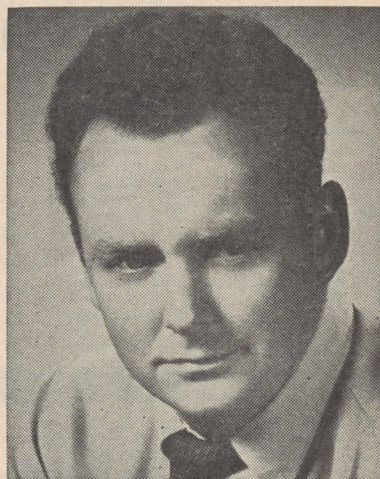

Ballet dancer Angela Leigh, in her first straight dramatic role, plays Billie Reynolds, of doubtful reputation, who knows more about the murder than she cares to reveal to the police. When Billie is murdered too, and the murdered man's beautiful sister, played by Victoria Mitchell, arrives from Italy, the mystery at Medlow threatens to become an international crisis. The Inspector in the quiet little town finds himself working with M.I.5 (Britain's secret service) to bring a killer to justice.

The cast also includes William Osler as the town doctor; Michele Learned as his niece (and the romance in Henderson's life); Leo Leyden as a local businessman involved with Billie; Christopher Newton as an eager-beaver newspaper reporter; Robin Gammell as Billie's ne'er-do-well brother; and John Hardinge as Ford's sidekick, Detective Sergeant Broderick.

Director Eric Till, faced with the task of recreating his English scene in Toronto, found the exteriors he was looking for on Centre Island in Toronto harbour, Lake Ontario, where a quiet lagoon fringed with weeping willows strongly resembles the upper reaches of the Thames. The cast, production crew, and cameras were ferried across to the island. For the purpose of the play, a fireboat operated by the Toronto Fire Department became a Thames houseboat.

The Other Man is a sample of the sort of drama fare to be offered in a 52-week series beginning next fall. It will be produced by the CBC on location in many parts of Canada. Ronald Weyman, executive producer, says the dramas he has lined up will not be affected by the usual studio and time limitations. The stories will all run to their natural lengths, and exteriors will be filmed on the spot of the action for closer regional identity. The BBC has been producing this sort of drama serial successfully for years. Weyman emphasizes that the serials will in no way resemble soap operas. The series will include both adaptations and original dramas. Weyman hopes it will end. (Please turn to page 25)

DOUGLAS RAIN

IVOR BARRY

World of Sport

Baseball Game of the Week. Dizzy Dean and Pee Wee Reese report from Yankee Stadium, New York, as the New York Yankees play the Cleveland Indians.

CBC Championship Bowling

Fred Sgambati reports from O'Connor Bowl as William Bilozir of Hamilton, Ont., defends his CBC Championship Bowling title.

CBXT—Hi Teens

Yvette Kramps and host Mike Winlaw present a show for Edmonton teenagers. In addition to the regular segments on news, sports and interviews with visiting celebrities, the panel discusses the opportunities for a career in drama with Gordon Peacock, director of drama at the University of Alberta. Producer, Don McRae.

Kingfisher Cove

Pat Napier introduces music from the Maritimes, with soprano Jean Marshall, baritone Clarence Fleiger, pianist Carol Hughes and harpist Phyllis Ensher.

Bugs Bunny

1. Long Haired Hare. Bugs takes over as conductor at the famed Hollywood Bowl.

2. Sandy Claws. Sylvester goes to Tweety's rescue, but the results are not what he counted on.

3. Mouse Wreckers. Two mice devise a devilish plan to rid a house of a cat.

Countrytime

1. Poultry Feature. Guest is home economist Dorothy Batchellor, a representative of the Poultry Products Institute.

2. Gardener Stan Westaway discusses the various fertilizers for lawn and garden.

Alberta Game Farm

In this final visit to the Alberta Game Farm, Al Oeming discusses and shows some rare and beautiful animals which are rapidly disappearing from the world because of man's lack of interest and ruthless killing. Animals seen are: musk-ox, Swan Hills grizzlies, caribou, wolverines, kit fox, fisher, otter, antelope, wallaroo, wallabee, cheetah, cougar and timber wolf.

Great Movies

Somebody Up There Likes Me. An incorrigible young man from New York's East Side is released from penitentiary and tries to start life anew as a professional boxer, then becomes involved in a million dollar scandal.

Starring Paul Newman, Pier Angeli and Everett Sloane.

Juliette

Juliette's special guest is Winnipeg vocalist Doug Crosley.

CBWT—Thriller

Yours Truly, Jack the Ripper. An English nobleman confronts American police with a unique theory about a series of recent murders.

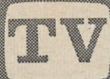

Portrait of Main Street In Film and Song

MAIN STREET, Winnipeg—flowing with the workaday traffic of a busy city, dotted with reminders of the cosmopolitan nature of the people that live and work along it: perhaps most noted across the nation as—at its intersection with its sleek, modern rival, Portage Avenue—being the place where “the wind always blows.”

The path of the Selkirk Settlers, paralleling the Red River once the water highway of the French Voyageurs, the street has seen its share of Western Canadian history.

With the Winnipeg Grain Exchange nearby, and great, marbled banks rising on either side of its roaring eight lanes of traffic, it has been, for half a century, the financial centre of the West—a position it has just recently been relinquishing by degrees to its pretty sister street, tree-lined Broadway. Now, as some of its buildings give way to the ceaseless beating of the elements, and some of the more stylish stores and offices relocate further west on Portage, the street becomes scattered with colourful gypsy palmists, hock shops, second-rate hotels and bars, small factories, pool halls, auction marts and theatres showing sensational films.

In an artful, poetic manner, 20/20 takes a stroll down the street at the heels of a buffalo-coated Winnipeg policeman, Sunday, April 28 on CBC-TV. Jim Pirie and Reg Gibson, Winnipeg folk-singers who have won nationwide notice with their frequent contributions to the Max Ferguson Show on CBC Radio, have composed music and songs telling of the street and its people. They are used as seasoning in a script written in blank verse. Narrators are Dave Robertson and Peter Manering, with Winnipeg police constable Haydn Brisling. Peter Kelly was the producer.

Program Notes

APRIL 28

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

CBXT-Saturday Heroes

Sportscasters Glenn Bjarnason and Ernie Afaganis turn the sports spotlight on the final game of a two-game total point series for the Bantam "A" Hockey Championship of Alberta with the Lethbridge All Stars competing with the Edmonton Safeway team. Producer, Les MacDiarmid.

Country Calendar

1. Last of the Dory Schooners. A film from the Maritimes.
2. Beef Cattle ROP (Record of Performance). Dr. Red Williams, associate professor of animal science, University of Saskatchewan, outlines the value to the producer of using ROP bulls. He demonstrates using three shorthorns from the University herd.
3. Interviews and short film coverage marking the 50th anniversary of the St. Boniface Stock Yards in Manitoba.

Time of Your Life

1. A group of dancers directed by Gladys Forrester, perform a modern version of Little Red Riding Hood in which the wolf is a black leather-jacketed, blue-jeaned motorcycle fiend, and granny is a garbage collector.
2. Eight girls perform two Scottish dances.
3. A still photo story shows how identical twins spend a Saturday morning.
4. A panel of youngsters consisting of Paul Fitzgerald, Melinda Badcock, David Saunders and Kim Killacky discuss the topics: Should you always tell the truth? Should you always use good manners? Should you always believe what people tell you?
5. A group of children's paintings from all over the world is shown.
6. A film follows a day in the life of the Hatashita family. The family is very interested in judo, and the father, Frank Hatashita, is a Black Belt, 4th degree.
7. A satire on career guidance is performed, with Wayne Murphy playing a lawyer; Sylvia Smith playing a lady politician; and Gary Henwood playing a doctor.

8. A film about a boy who goes to camp for the first time.

Speaking French

Professor Jean-Paul Vinay, director of the department of linguistics at the University of Montreal and his assistant Rena Berzin teach the French language by using the blackboard, flash-cards and other visual aids, with verbal instruction.

Heritage

The Last Weekend. A visit to the school established by St. John's Cathedral (Anglican) at Dynevor, Man., during its final two days as a weekend school, in June of 1962. With volunteer teachers and workers, the School received boys for each weekend, during which they studied, played, worked, rested and prayed. Now, the institution has become full-time, still dedicated to Headmaster Frank Wiens' belief that "modern society seriously under-rates the capacity of its young people to work and to think." Produced by Ernie Mutimer.

20/20

Main Street Mosaic. A poetic portrait of Winnipeg's Main Street, broad artery that attests to the cosmopolitan makeup of the city's people. Cameras take short side-trips to see garment and leather-goods factories, the CPR terminal where the historic Countess of Dufferin steam engine is displayed, the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and other elements of the street's commercial and recreational facilities. Produced by Peter Kelly, with original songs written by Reg Gibson and Jim Pirie.

The Twentieth Century

Walter Cronkite introduces the story of the United States navy's underwater demolition teams.

The Valiant Years

A repeat of the documentary series based on Sir Winston Churchill's The Valiant Years and made up of authentic newsreel film from World War Two.

Today, The Gathering Storm. This episode tells the story of how Churchill was recalled to public service by England as Hitler's Panzers violated Poland. Churchill became First Lord of the Admiralty, a post he had held 25 years previously.

Walt Disney

Prairie-Seal Island. Walt Disney reveals the professional secrets of his nature photographers. The cameras are turned on the cameramen themselves as they go about recording the day-by-day life of the animal kingdom.

Hazel

Hazel is selected by a national magazine as the nation's outstanding domestic servant.

Ed Sullivan

Ed Sullivan presents his hour-long program from Toronto's O'Keefe Centre with bandleader-musician Xavier Cugat, singer Abbe Lane, and comedians Wayne and Shuster.

Bonanza

The Saga of Whizzer McGee. Hoss becomes the personal defender for a diminutive friend.

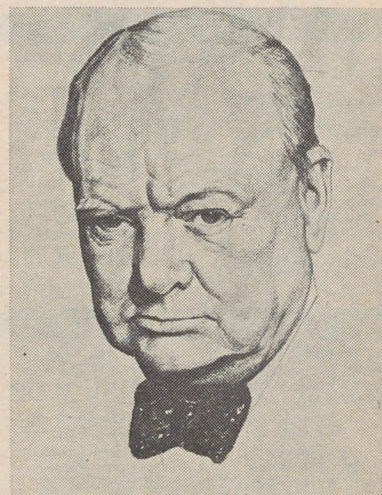

Close-Up

The Threshold of Abundance. This hour-long Close-Up examines a view, stated on the program by Paul Samuelson, professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, that modern economists have long determined upon the precise means required to alleviate the kind of unemployment which has become chronic in North America.

The primary means referred to by Professor Samuelson, also a member of President Kennedy's economic advisors, are the fiscal and monetary policies of government. Additional contributions to the analysis of attitudes regarding government economic policies are contributed by a number of Canadian and American experts.

CBXT-Thriller

A Good Imagination. A maniacal murderer decides to kill his unfaithful wife and devises a perfect alibi.

The Valiant Years, based on the memoirs of Sir Winston Churchill, above, returns to CBC-TV Sunday. The distinguished series, first seen two years ago, is made up of outstanding newsreel film of the Second World War.

Program Notes

APRIL 29

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

CBXT—How to Marry a Millionaire

To impress a millionaire art collector, Greta, Mike and Loco become involved in "borrowing" priceless paintings.

CBXT—Ladies First

1. June Sheppard presents a month-end news report.

2. Madelaine Dunkley begins work on a "Lawrence of Arabia" turban. Co-hosts are Jo Everett and Ernie Poscente. Producer, Don McRae.

CBXT—Kerry Wood Storybook

Alberta naturalist and folk-lore expert Kerry Wood tells the story of Mickey the Beaver, about an injured beaver that was raised by a girl in Red Deer—a story which became part of the Canadian Grade Four reader. Producer, Les MacDiarmid.

Take Thirty

A half-hour BBC film of the marriage, in Westminster Abbey, of Princess Alexandra to Angus Ogilvy, the second son of the Earl of Airlie. Princess Alexandra is the Colonel-in-Chief of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada.

Scarlett Hill

Room to Let. Continuation of the story from last week about life in a typical boarding house. Today, Kate Russell's rooming house continues to be shrouded in mystery when Harry's workshop becomes the headquarters for Walter Pendleton's secret work.

CBWT—Ladies First

Today's guest is Barry Anderson, director of the Metropolitan Male Chorus.

Razzle Dazzle

With the Hit Parade Puppets and Howard Mellowtone of station C-O-W. A special report is given from a trafficopter which gets lost over Hong Kong and Trafalgar Square.

This Living World

Host Steve Bloomer describes how nature "greet" the young citizens of the world of nature: birds, bear cubs, young skunks and insects.

CBXT—Gateway

1. Space. Ian McLennan of the Queen Elizabeth Planetarium in Edmonton talks about the progress being made in space exploration.

2. Don Drysdale and teammates of the Los Angeles Dodgers describe and demonstrate the basic fundamentals of baseball. Producer, Dave Smiley.

CBXT—Sports Page

1. Strikes to Spare. A seven-game series on five-pin bowling. Today, Del Gagnon and Jack Turner compete.

2. Fourth in a series demonstrating exercises to get in shape for golf, with Ernie Afaganis.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Music and song from Halifax with Don Messer and his Islanders, Marg Osburne, Charlie Chamberlain, the Buchta Dancers and guests.

This week's guests are vocalist Lloyd Mason, fiddler Johnny Mooring and step dancers Joan McKenzie and Muriel Ross, all from Springhill, N.S. Numbers include:

When Paddy McGinty Plays	Charlie
the Harp	Marg
Tennessee Waltz

Garry Moore once more brings his bright musical variety show to CBC-TV Monday evening.

I See the Moon	Lloyd, Marg and Charlie
Barn Door Jig	Buchta Dancers
Johnny Mooring's Hornpipe	Islanders

Danny Thomas

Danny is forced to resort to an impersonation when Uncle Tonoose makes some plans for his future which Danny is not happy about.

Festival

A Book with Chapters in It. A repeat of the drama of childhood by English playwright Jack Pulman (first telecast on Festival last October). A sensitive boy reacts to the puzzling, sometimes frightening world of adults in which he lives and in the process becomes aware that he is growing up.

Starring Martin Stephens, Tony Van Bridge, Diana Maddox, Betty Leighton and Gillie Fenwick. Others in cast are Raymond Wickens, Peter Tully and Ronald Cohoon. Produced by Eric Till.

Festival Repeats Feature By Popular Demand

LAST FALL CBC-TV's Festival presented an unusually sensitive and amusing play viewing the adult world through the eyes of a 10-year-old boy who lives in an ordinary English household with his parents, his widowed and rather flashy Aunt Jane, and his bedridden grandfather. Titled A Book with Chapters in It, it drew such enthusiastic response from viewers that it will be repeated on Monday night, April 29. Production is by Eric Till.

In his 90-minute drama British playwright Jack Pulman shows that growing up is not so much a matter of acquiring experience as of becoming aware of experience in a continuously unfolding process. The boy in the play is portrayed by 13-year-old Martin Stephens, a veteran of numerous films, such as The Innocents, Count Your Blessings, and Village of the Damned, who played the title role for six months in the London production of Oliver.

Tony Van Bridge plays Ben, the father; Diana Maddox appears as Aunt Jane; Betty Leighton as Clara, the mother; Gillie Fenwick as Grandpa; Raymond Wickens as Egbert, the boy's older brother who is doing his National Service; and Peter Tully and Ronald Cohoon as the boy's pals.

It's a gently tenacious play set in the last days of summer when, to a restless, intuitive lad, the holidays seem endless and boring, and the adult world he must spend them in seems terribly complicated and full of mysterious contradictions. "Life is a book with chapters in it," his kindly, raffish Aunt Jane explains to him. "Some are happy, some are sad, and some are just chapters that don't mean anything." Pulman handles his theme with great restraint and drollery.

After the BBC produced the play a couple of years ago, the London Sunday Telegraph noted that Pulman "made it clear that for all but the most fortunate (or most withdrawn children) the process of growing up is sullied by their parents. Young Edgar's chunk of experience included (in order of importance) long trousers at last, a room of his own, and first encounters with sex, instability, death. If he asked why nice Aunt Jane had been driven from the house, Mum said: 'Sssh, never you mind.' On holiday she forbade him to talk to the hotel cook, at home to the Jamaican street cleaner. Why? 'Never you mind.' When old Grandpa passed on, the adult world reacted with sentiment and the trite consolations of religion. Only Edgar and his school-fellows gazed with unaffected curiosity on the dead face. Time and again the impression was of innocence being smeared by grown-up prejudices."

Presently young actor Martin Stephens is having his first experience of living away from home. He's at a boarding school on the coast of Kent in England. He plans to go on to university later, and perhaps become an architect. Meanwhile he spends his holidays acting. He's been self-supporting for nearly four years—ever since his father died. His mother was a repertory actress in Manchester before her marriage, and his twin sisters, Judy and Sally, also act.

Martin likes making films, "although in a way it's nicer to be on the stage, because there you know the way people in the audience are feeling. But I like radio best because the BBC let me play cricket in the studio lobby."

Night and Day
Favourite Things
I Believe in You
Growing Up

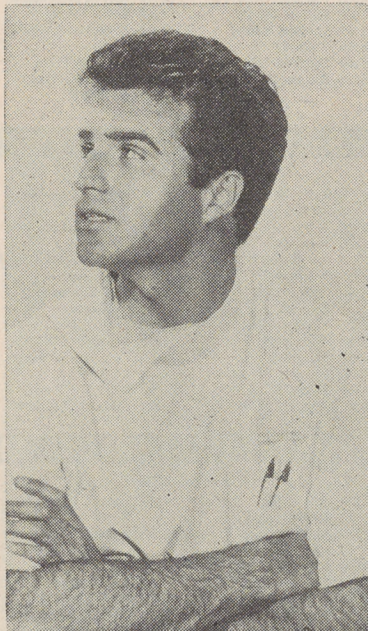

Ben Casey

Lullaby for Billy Dignan. The foster parents of an infant boy separate when they find that their adopted son is in need of a delicate operation.

Explorations

Antigonish International. Part 2. A visit to the Coady International Institute of St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S., for the weekly seminar, set up like the United Nations, where students are discussing land reform.

The main speakers are a U.S. student and one from Nyasaland. Frank Glasgow, deputy director of the Institute, gives an outline of courses available. Monsignor Francis J. Smyth, director of the Institute, outlines the purpose of the social leadership courses, and tells where the students come from. The program describes how the Institute's program of studies is constantly changing to meet the changing social problems throughout the world.

Dr. Ben Casey (Vincent Edwards, above) is faced with a delicate situation when foster parents of a young patient separate on finding that he needs a delicate operation—Wednesday on CBC-TV.

CBXT—Surfside 6

Girl in the Galleon. A beautiful mermaid provides Sandy Winfield and Ken Madison with the clues to solve a murder and to expose a fake treasure trove.

CBWT—All-Star Golf

From the Philadelphia Country Club. Lionel Hebert plays Jay Hebert.

Little University Sets World Example

FOR 74 YEARS St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, Nova Scotia, had been training young people in the arts and sciences and priding itself on the way many of them later distinguished themselves. Then, in 1929, when the Depression struck, it took a radical step which extended its classrooms to include the world, in an adult education program which has been copied in the United States, Africa, Europe, China, South Korea, Central and South America, and other places.

On Wednesday Nights, April 24 and May 1, CBC-TV's Explorations takes viewers to visit the Little Campus of the World in Antigonish to see how the adult education program operates, and to see the benefits of its application in Maritime communities.

The faculty at the university was disturbed, back in the late 1920s, by the plight of thousands of Maritime fishermen, farmers, miners and industrial workers who, plagued by poverty, illiteracy and lethargy, blamed the times, the government and anything but themselves. In 1929 the university sent a bevy of staff members to tell these people bluntly that they should stop pitying themselves and organize to do something about their problems. The university offered to help.

Study groups of farmers, fishermen and labourers were formed to pool knowledge and experience; mass meetings, conferences and leadership courses were arranged, credit unions were started and insurance benefits improved. Eventually a radio station was purchased by the university alumni to broadcast a school of the air for adults.

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

CBXT—How to Marry a Millionaire

Unusual things happen when the three girls are invited to a hunting lodge and Loco gets a gun in her hands.

National School Telecasts

Patterns of Living. The second of six programs written and narrated by Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan, head of the department of zoology at the University of British Columbia. The series illustrates the principle that all living animals share the common properties of ability to propagate, to react to their environment, and to obtain food and convert it to their use.

Today, When Winter Comes. An explanation of how living organisms adapt to different conditions without developing any special new ability.

Take Thirty

1. Nancy Bacall interviews a British drug addict, Alexander Trocchi, who has recently written a book on addiction.

2. Alan Telfer of the Canadian Electrical Standards Association discusses safety in the home.

Scarlett Hill

Room to Let. The lives of the various people in a typical rooming house are depicted in this story which continues from day to day. Today, Kate reaches an important decision concerning Walter.

Ladies First

1. Fashion expert Marilyn Phillips and Mary Liz Bayer discuss clothes closets, clothes storage and a clothes care plan to help prolong the life of garments.

2. With the eager aid of Bill Guest, Mat Gauer prepares a delectable orange cake which she recommends for everyday enjoyment and special entertaining.

Razzle Dazzle

1. Al plans to become a member of the Mighty Mooses Troop of Mooselets.

2. On Howard's Comics, Boomer Foghorn tells of the time he helped Ben Casey.

CBWT—Stop, Look and Listen

Today's program finds Charlemagne in training for a battle royal with Reggie. He sends for a body-building course but Marlborough upsets his plans and the outcome of the fight is unusual to say the least.

Outdoors With Per Holting. Per takes a filmed trip to Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories for a little lake trout fishing. Producer, Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBXT—Dobie Gillis

Dobie and Maynard move away from home when they get the idea they want to be more independent.

CBXT—West on Five

The new-look western musical show featuring Edmonton's finest western music talent. Regulars are host "Old Dad" Taylor; guitarist Frank Gaye; vocalist Maureen Whitley; and folk singer and western story teller, Bob Adamsons alternating appearances with balladeer Jack Dennistoun. Producer, William Burley.

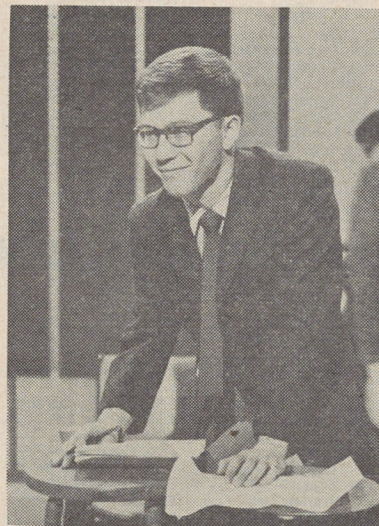

The Defenders

The Indelible Silence. The Prestons face an unpleasant ordeal when they are called upon to defend a teen-aged American Nazi accused of first degree murder.

Playdate

The Man Who Cheered the Leafs, by Leslie McFarlane. (Pre-empted on April 11, later on April 18, by an NHL semi-final and a Stanley Cup final, respectively).

A father has serious objections to "signing over" his hockey-mad son to play for a national hockey league farm club. Starring Austin Willis and Charmion King, with Peter Kastner and Beth Morris. Produced by Henry Kaplan.

Peter Kastner, host of the Sunday youth show Time of Your Life, is a star of Thursday's Playdate presentation, The Man Who Cheered the Leafs.

On-air lessons are given not only in practical subjects which will help listeners to better themselves as wage earners, but also in music, poetry and public health.

The results of the scheme have been startling. Farmers and fishermen are now enjoying greatly increased earnings through co-operative marketing, cheaper purchasing through consumer co-operatives, and housing developments where members often build their own homes, with plenty of lawn and garden space around them. Groups once split by religious intolerance are united in common effort, with well-stocked libraries, better schools, community centres, widespread ownership of private property, and they have learned to develop and to benefit by the art of conversation. They achieve their objectives through personal improvement and group action, rather than by appealing for government assistance. Farmers and fishermen in the Magdalen Islands saved collectively for 10 years to buy a $75,000 trading ship and a $300,000 co-op fish business which completely changed their economic outlook. And that's just one instance of many similar ones of self-help inspired by the university.

Now visitors come to the campus from all over the world to study the extension school set-up. And the regular university courses in arts and science are attracting more and more students from across the continent and other countries. Enrolment in regular courses is expected to reach 1,950 by 1965. The Carnegie Corporation of New York, which has contributed many thousands to the university's extramural work, has said that St. Francis Xavier University is providing "some of the most original and effective extramural work which has ever come to the attention of the corporation."

Program Notes

MAY 3

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

CBXT—How to Marry a Millionaire

Loco goes to court to collect damages for alleged injuries suffered during an automobile accident.

CBXT—Ladies First

1. City Librarian Morton Coburn talks about more interesting aspects of the library.

2. A panel of professional people talk about the values of Mental Health Week.

3. The winner of the second crossword puzzle is announced as well as details for the third crossword. Producer, Don McRae.

Take Thirty

Ideas for a children's party including food, games, themes, decorations and so forth, are shown.

Scarlett Hill

Continuation of the serialized drama about people living in a typical boarding house in Scarlett Hill.

CBWT—Ladies First

Today's guest is to be announced. Ruth Dyker offers suggestions for the best weekend buys.

Razzle Dazzle

1. Sharpy finally thinks he is on the road to big money. He has found a chicken that can add and subtract and can speak five languages.

2. The Razzle Dazzle of the week is shown.

3. Ace Baker judges another Field Day competition between the Spots and the Stripes.

CBXT—Stu Davis

A visit with singer Stu Davis, for 15 minutes of western songs.

I Wonder If They Miss Me on the Farm
It's Just a Wild Rose
Just an Old Farm for Sale

Web of Life

Queen Charlotte Islands. Host Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan of the University of British Columbia takes viewers on a visit to these mountainous islands, 80 miles off Canada's northerly Pacific coast.

Vegetation and plant life on the islands are abundant, but few species of birds and animals have been able to cross the stormy water barrier of their own accord. Caribou are believed to have crossed when great sheets of ice, long ago, joined the islands to the mainland. However, there were no wolves, coyotes or foxes, mountain lions or skunks to pursue the pioneer mammals.

CBXT—Perspective

A study of people, places and things of interest to Edmontonians with Alex Moir as host. Producer, Jack Emack.

Country Hoedown

Singing, dancing and comedy — country style.

Special guest is Canadian folksinger Elan Stuart.

Lovely folksinger Elan Stuart lends her warm personality Friday to Country Hoedown as special guest.

Tommy Ambrose

Tommy's special guest is U.S. singer Julius LaRosa.

CBWT—Biography

Adolf Hitler. Part 2. The Fall of the Third Reich concludes the biography of Adolf Hitler. Hitler's reckless adventure hurled the world into war. His futile attempt at conquest took 80 million lives and destroyed whole nations. There could be no other ending to his story but the destruction of his country and ultimately the destruction of himself.

Julius LaRosa On Ambrose Show Friday on CBC-TV

JULIUS LAROSA, who for 10 years has been trying to get away from being known as the young pop singer who was fired on the air by Arthur Godfrey, will be guest on the Tommy Ambrose Show on Friday night, May 3.

One report of the firing incident reported that Godfrey said he was prouder of LaRosa than of any other talented entertainer he had developed, and had fired him to further the boy's career. In another report Godfrey charged that LaRosa had "failed to show that loveable, likeable, down-to-earth quality that for lack of a better word I call humility."

Although at the time he was furious with Godfrey for the precipitous and public way he ended their association, LaRosa now is grateful to his patron for the experience he was able to acquire on the Godfrey shows. And, of course, the firing did spur on LaRosa's career. "When Mr. Godfrey hired me I was a frightened 21-year-old kid," he says. "I had mike fright for the first six months. Before that I didn't know a thing."

LaRosa was born in Brooklyn in 1930, to Salvatore and Lucy LaRosa, who had emigrated from Sicily. In his teens Julius was a member of the All-City Chorus of New York and sang with his high

Program Notes

April 28

8:35 a.m.—Postmark U.K.
(8:30 a.m. on CBK and CBX)

Fordingbridge. Tim Matthews visits this town in Hampshire and talks to some of the local inhabitants about the town, its industries and its history. Fordingbridge is the place where the sails were made for Nelson's warships, but today its nautical connections are limited almost entirely to a factory which makes racing canoes.

9:03 a.m.—Sunday School of the Air

Second in a series on the Ten Commandments. The Rev. R. E. Whyte of St. Thomas Anglican Church, Winnipeg, moderates a panel from St. Thomas' and the St. Thomas Anglican Church junior choir is conducted by Robert Gardner.

Today, The First Commandment: Our King, Our Judge, Our Father.

Storyteller is Norm Micklewright. Producer, Harry Randall.

9:30 a.m.—Sunday Morning Magazine

News, headlines, weather reports, local and national sports, and news reporting in depth.

1:00 p.m.—I.Q.

A quiz discussion with teams of students from across Canada. Today, the Crescent Heights High School and the Western Canada High School compete in Calgary.

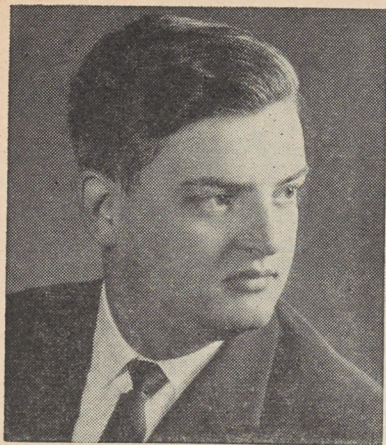

3:30 p.m.—Church of the Air

Conducted by the Rev. Father Daniel McLarnon S.J., of St. Ignatius Church, Winnipeg. The St. Ignatius Choir is under the direction of Maurice Gelly. Producer, Harry Randall.

5:00 p.m.—Venture

U-Boats of the Atlantic. A two-part documentary consisting of personal recollections of the ordinary seaman as well as expert observations of high-ranking officers and scientists collected by Colin Edwards in co-operation with the British Navy, the RCN and the USN.

Among these interviews are several with post-war German immigrants to Canada, who during the War served in the U-Boat command and in the ranks. Today's program covers the period from the beginning of the War to the peak of the crisis at the beginning of 1943. Co-ordinator of material is James Bannerman.

Orville Derragh sings songs by Henri Duparc Sunday at 4:45 p.m., on Song Recital.

Sinfonietta Tadeusz Baird
Tryptych Mercure
Intermezzo,
from Vanessa Samuel Barber

4:45 p.m.—Song Recital

The word "melodie" represents a stylized song that anticipated the musical impressionism of France, as a result of the Parnassian school of poetry's resistance to the Romanticism of Victor Hugo and De Musset.

Baritone Orville Derragh and pianist Chester Duncan present the songs of the composer who championed the poets' new cause in the form of the French "melodie" as opposed to the German "lied."

Producer, Benjamin Horch.

La Vie antérieure Henri Duparc
Sérénade florentine Henri Duparc
Phydilé Henri Duparc

courage Canadian playwrights to try their hands at something new to them—science-fiction, exploration, thrillers, romance, history—the field is wide open.

The series resumes early in October with an eight-episode dramatization by Hugh Webster of Thomas Raddall's novel The Wings of Night, the story of a young man, Neil Jamieson, returning to his home in Oak Falls, a Nova Scotia lumbering town which he has hated since childhood. He finds that the community's one industry is controlled by wealthy Senator Quarrender and his hard-drinking son, Steve, who has married Neil's boyhood sweetheart, Louise. The cast includes James Doohan as Neil Jamieson; Jane Mallett as Grandmother Jamieson; Jeremy Wilkin as Steve Quarrender; Irene Mayeska as Louise; John Drainie as a small-town lawyer; and Charles Palmer as the Senator.

Other dramas in the series include Strangers in Ste. Angèle, a wintertime thriller filmed in the Laurentian Mountains. Written by Phyllis Lee Peterson of Montreal, it includes in its cast such well-known names as Jonathan White, Sharon Acker, Graydon Gould (recently returned from Britain), Larry Zahab, Bruno Gerussi, and leading French Canadian performers.

Train of Murder is set on a trans-continental train. Its author, Kay Hill, is a gentle little Maritimes writer of distinction who has spent the last few months studying ways of killing someone on a train. She consulted judo experts, psychiatrists and doctors, and now is something of an authority on ways of "bumping off" with the least noise and effort. She got the idea for the play when she took a cross-country trip recently. As the silver-coloured train streaked its way between Toronto and Vancouver little did her fellow passengers realize the skulduggery hatching in her head. Viewers may remember her Three To Get Married, a romantic comedy which General Motors Theatre presented some time ago.

Thomas Costain's Son of a Hundred Kings, a Dickensian novel with his childhood setting in mind—Brantford, Ontario—has been adapted in 10 episodes by Leslie McFarlane. Set at the turn of the century, it tells of a mysterious little boy newly arrived in a small Canadian town from England.

Charles Israel is adapting Cheila McKay Russell's The Living Earth in 10 episodes. She is the author of The Lamp Is Heavy. The Living Earth is based on her experiences as a district nurse in northern Saskatchewan, where the cast and crew will go to film exterior scenes. Another drama, The Open Sky, will be filmed in Alberta, and Weyman is hoping to line up a series with a B.C. setting.

6:00 p.m.—New York Philharmonic

Under the direction of Thomas Schippers. Featuring boy soprano Jeffrey Meyer with the Walter Baker Chorus and the boys' choirs of the Church of the Transfiguration and St. Paul's, Flatbush. Organist is Thomas Schippers. (Note: part of this program will be deleted due to time limitations).

Prelude, Die Meistersinger Wagner
Organ Concerto Poulenc
Sept repons des tenebres Poulenc
(broadcast première of work commissioned by the New Work Philharmonic Orchestra in honour of their opening concert at Lincoln Centre)

9:00 p.m.—Records in Review

Ken Winters reviews recently-released recordings:

1. Glenn Gould plays Bach Compositions for a Well-Tempered Clavichord.
2. Roslyn Tureck plays Bach Keyboard Music.

10:30 p.m.—Winnipeg Pops Concert

Guest conductor is Dr. Geoffrey Waddington. Producer, Tom Taylor.

Overture: Die Meistersinger Wagner
Adagio for Strings Samuel Barber
Overture—Fantasy: Romeo and Juliet Tchaikovsky
Siorees Musicales Britten

11:15 p.m.—CBC String Orchestra

Under the direction of Nicholas Goldschmidt.

Divertimento No. 2, K. 187 Mozart
Symphonia No. 9 Mendelssohn
Notturmo in B, op. 44 Dvorak

families of cats; a finger-snapping hipster; or a sincere young man who is searching for an identity which constantly eludes him.

A few months ago he decided to try something new. He formed his own trio featuring his singing, the guitar playing of Lennie Breaux of Winnipeg, the bass of Eon Henstridge, and the comedy routines of them all. Last fall they "shook down" in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and Hamilton to see whether they could get along together. When they found that they could, they set their sights on New York, long a goal of Francks. "We won't set foot in New York unless we're going to bomb it," he insisted. Currently they're bombing the daylight hours out of enthusiastic patrons at the Blue Angel there, with plans for a tour of other American night spots; off-beat coffee houses, and supper clubs. Francks calls their distinctive kind of music "experiments in crossing time and space."

He says he's grateful for the "tremendous grounding" he got in Canada and for the fact that Canadian showbusiness didn't harness him, but he criticizes the "play-it-safe" standard of Canadian pops singing and variety. "We're like fence-sitters. Look: the late Jack Kane once told me, will you please stick to the melody a little more, Don? Because if you don't, 'Uncle Charlie' will never understand it. But my point is that 'Uncle Charlie' isn't stupid. He's pretty hip. And if he were to hear that song again and again, he'd get to like it."

This Wednesday night Francks and his trio turn up on CBC-TV's Parade with a half-hour show including Francks' singing of Night and Day, Favourite Things, I'm in Love, I Believe in You, Growing Up, and, for all the "Uncle Charlies," a medley including some popular and some almost forgotten children's songs from away back.

Francks has a plan for the next few years which includes the occasional return visit to Canada, one of which will be to play Alexander Mackenzie in an NFB film. "My aim," he says, "is to become a top, all-round performer in the Chaplin tradition—and be recognized as such. I give myself three to five years. And after I've made enough money, I want to make my own films, with my own stories, in Mexico—the climate there suits my clothes."

Tony Hancock Now on CBC Radio

Hear this favourite British comedian Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN got out of the Rolls Royce, kicked the tramp in the stomach, picked up his cigar butt, got back in the car and drove away. Chaplin was a violent but great comic in those halcyon days, but Tony Hancock is amazed that he had the courage to do the scene at all.

Hancock says he would dare to do it because he likes belligerent, malicious comedy, and he could probably get away with it as easily as Chaplin, but he's one of the few who could. Like Chaplin he enjoys playing rebels, the sort who fall flat on their faces and always try again. And that's probably the secret of his remarkable success on TV, radio and in films, because nearly everyone would like to rebel, too, and the next best thing is watching this flabby-faced character in the sagging pants fumbling through the sort of ordinary and extraordinary situations that crop up daily all over the world, slapping and getting slapped but invariably coming back for more.

Hancock talks as if he were continually trying to suppress a burp. He moves as if he thought the ground were going to cave in under his next step. When he ambles before the cameras his perpetual slouch, sad eyes and obstinate mouth leave no doubt that he is the rebel concealed within the little man in the street, opinionated, sometimes silly, rarely learning from his mistakes, stepped-upon as regularly as a crack on Main Street, wanting to say to hell with this and that and you and you, but mired to his sagging jowls in middle-class conformity.

It wasn't by accident that he hit on his sure-fire recipe for making bizarre comedy out of calamity. He found it the hard way. His first audience walked out on him when, at the age of 16, he thought a steady stream of barroom jokes would keep the customers happy.

Hancock had left school a year earlier, convinced he was born to fail, and recalls that "photographs taken of me at the time show me looking like an Italian waiter or a single, disembodied egg." He's still gloomy in his outlook — worries excessively over everything from keeping his career in high gear to keeping his weight in low—but his humour is now much cleaner, much more subtle, than he would have thought possible at 16, showing the influence of his varied career since then — civil service, RAF, pantomime, the Windmill Theatre, and the grind to establish himself in radio, TV and films.

He deplores the current trend in sick comedy. "Sick humour," he says, "is superficial, because you are not approaching any things of real value. It may be reflecting some social disease. But humour should not do it in this way, not state the point so hard. Your comment is in what you do, not in what you stage. Audiences understand; they know what passion is, they know what pain is. If you show something for them, they recognize what you have to show. I attack myself, as well, don't forget. So without any question there is no limit to what a comedian can attack if he wants to — the H-bomb, anything.

Starting this Tuesday, April 30, at 8:30 p.m. on CBC Radio, Hancock will be heard in a regular half-hour of rib-tickling comedy recorded by the BBC.

We will establish a school that demands the same vigorous and total mental effort in the classroom which our rowing cutters and snowshoe teams (and canoes) have established outdoors. We will operate this school without the benefit of the limitless capital budget and salary schedule which characterizes modern education. Instead, we promise teachers only the satisfaction of carrying out their vocation."

nipeg to beyond Berens River. This film, taken by CBC news cameramen and Ted Byfield of the school, was an account of what actually happened on the voyage. It has been seen three times on the CBC National Network. The second film, originally programmed from Toronto was a short impression of the weekend school at Dynevor. It too has been seen since, in the Golden Glances series.

The Last Weekend in a way marks the end of an era in the school's activities. As a full-time operation, the school has grown a good deal, and yet lost much of its unique quality.

Mr. Mutimer's eldest son, David, attended the weekend school at Selkirk, rowed from Grand Forks to St. John in a school cutter, and snowshoed into Winnipeg from Lockport in twenty below weather. His age at the time, eight.

school band at proms. He was a great admirer of Sinatra, Como and Crosby—and, in 1956, married Como's secretary, a girl who had never heard of LaRosa until her first date with him.

When he graduated from high school Julius joined the U.S. Navy, became an aviation electronicsman, later a musician, second class rating, and transferred to Washington to sing with the Navy Band. While he was in Pensacola, Florida, on the U.S.S. Wright, he met Godfrey. After it was announced that Godfrey was to appear at a local service club, friends of Julius dropped a note into Godfrey's hotel mailbox asking him to listen to their buddy sing. He did, and immediately invited LaRosa to appear on the Arthur Godfrey and His Friends TV show. LaRosa was his guest many times while still in uniform. When he left the service in 1951 LaRosa signed with Godfrey and for two years appeared on his shows several times a week with great success.

After he began to freelance in 1953, LaRosa played clubs and theatres across the States and appeared on numerous leading TV and radio shows, including CBC-TV's Parade. He made several recordings, one of which, Eh, Cum-para, sold well over a million.

In the last few years he has been doing some acting in summer stock and appeared briefly on Broadway when he replaced Hal March for two weeks in Come Blow Your Horn. He would like to concentrate entirely on acting — pros have told him that he has considerable dramatic talent. But the trouble, he says, is that because he's so well known as a singer, theatre and TV drama producers can't think of him as anything else, although, against his agent's wishes, he has expressed his willingness to play any minor dramatic role, just for the experience.

In his May 3 appearance on CBC-TV LaRosa sings Any Place I Hang My Hat is Home, Just Say I Love Her, and joins Tommy Ambrose in some old favourites.

COOK'S TOUR

with Mat Gauer

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH THURSDAY

VEGETABLES

FRENCH PEAS

Put 3 leaves of lettuce in skillet, over this place 1 package slightly defrosted frozen peas, then add 2 tablespoons butter, 4 green onions, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 sprigs parsley and a pinch of chervil. Place another leaf of lettuce on top and cook until peas are barely tender. (2 tablespoons water should be added to skillet to prevent sticking during cooking.)

Remove lettuce. Cream 1 tablespoon butter with ½ teaspoon flour and add to peas. Shake over heat and serve.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS WITH FILBERTS

Cook fresh brussel sprouts in chicken broth. Saute coarsely-chopped filberts in butter. Thicken sauce on sprouts with cornstarch and toss nuts over just before serving.

CORN BALLS

1 tin corn (cream style)
1 cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
3 eggs
Pepper
3 chopped green onions

Beat all ingredients together — drop by spoonfuls into hot fat. Fry until brown.

Little Joe Much the Same Off Camera

"I'M A devil-may-care little devil!"

This is how Michael Landon sums up his starring role as "Little Joe" Cartwright, youngest of three brothers in Bonanza, seen Sundays on the CBC-TV network.

In many respects, it's a good description of the 25-year-old actor, starting with his school career down to his present pre-occupation with snakes, spiders and fast cars.

Mike has a high IQ, but graduated nearly last in a high school class of 301 students. "I just didn't like to study," he explains. "I was too busy trying to be the class clown."

However, he had scholarship offers from several universities for his outstanding record as a javelin thrower.

Before entering university, Mike stayed in Santa Barbara, Calif., making up scholastic deficiencies and teaching swimming. The latter presented a slight problem—he didn't know how to swim and was deathly afraid of the water.

Landon got into showbusiness with the help of a friend. While working in a warehouse near his home in Hollywood, he agreed to read for a buddy taking screen tests at a motion picture studio. When the test was completed, Mike, and not his friend, was signed to a contract.

His first starring role was in I Was a Teenage Werewolf, a picture he'd like to forget. He also played the title role in Legend of Tom Dooley, starred in Maracaibo and played the albino in God's Little Acre. He has acted in more than 100 TV shows.

Landon likes fast cars, animals, insects and snakes, including a pet tarantula he found while on location in the Mojave Desert. His pet snakes include a boa constrictor.

The young actor has long since made up for his early distaste for school work by reading almost anything he gets his hands on. He enjoys discussing almost any subject, and recently sold his first screenplay, which was broadcast on Bonanza last season.

His TV father, co-star Lorne Greene, calls him, "one of the brightest young men I've ever met."

Michael Landon, second from right, with the other Bonanza stars.
